

An Inconvenient Truth (2006)

Tuesday, 26 December 2006

I've just finished watching 'An Inconvenient Truth' by Al Gore and felt compelled to write a little something about it.

It is an engaging documentary about Global Warming from someone that cares deeply about the issue, and with due cause. Both informative and inspiring it looks at the facts, distils the truth, and serves it up with humble grace and a light-hearted humour.

For an issue so important to all of us Global Warming really needs more action. There are those that would shift the issue from fact to debate, but the time for debate is over; The facts are here, and we need to act now.

What more can I say, if you haven't done so already go watch it, tell your friends, make it happen.

For more information visit <http://www.climatecrisis.net>.

Oh, and Plant Trees. Lots of Trees.

An Inconvenient Truth (2006) - Rating 5/5